

Why Own a Generac Generator?

- Provide temporary jobsite electricity for tools and lights
- Power essential computers, networks and phones
- Power an entire business
- Provide backup power for short-term or occasional outages

A portable generator is a great, mobile option for temporary power.

Portable generators are intended only as a backup solution – or to provide power for power tools where electricity isn't available.

These portable generators operate on gasoline.

Gas-powered models emit carbon monoxide when in use and should never be run indoors or near windows and doors.
